

The following information was compiled from a Title I Case Study at Wattles Elementary School in Troy, Michigan. See SSS Resource #20 at www.oakland.k12.mi.us/earlychildhood, click on Super Summer Success for further information.

Wish List

Books were organized by reading level and placed into bins. Students chose three books and wrote the titles on their Wish List Form. They were encouraged to select books from different genres and authors. If students wanted books from a particular series that were different from those provided in the bins, they were encouraged to write their desired titles on their lists.

After students had completed their Wish List Forms, the selected books were pulled from the collection, sorted and labeled with the children's names. If several students chose the same book, extra copies were purchased. Books were then placed in book bags labeled with each student's names.

Since additional funds were available, several copies of the more popular titles or topics were purchased to add to the collection.

Choice List

Students were given an opportunity to make another round of book choices with the remainder of the books. Once again, they were encouraged to select a variety of types of books. They wrote the titles on the second section of the Wish List Form. Books were gathered and added to the previous sets for each child.

Distribution of Books

The lists and books were double-checked to make sure that all the students' selected books had been assembled. SSS return labels were placed on each book. Book bags were then distributed to all students.
